Texas Children's Hospital to open first-of-its-kind dedicated floor for adults with congenital heart disease

Since 2004, the Adult Congenital Heart Disease Program at Texas Children's has provided groundbreaking care, and in November, the hospital will open a first-of-its-kind dedicated floor designed by and for adults with congenital heart disease. The 27,000-square-foot space, situated on the 24th floor of Texas Children's Lester and Sue Smith Legacy Tower, will include a 16-bed inpatient unit, outpatient clinic, cardiac rehab gym, diagnostics lab and more. This innovative approach to care is unprecedented, and another step forward for the no. 1 ranked hospital for cardiology and heart surgery by U.S. News & World Report.
